I agree. It is also worth pointing anyone to the Preamble and the instructions for authors to explain the process. The group deliberations of course are privileged. But the votes and text in sections 5.4 and 6 are pretty clear with respect to the justification.

Dear Matt,

I concur with Kate.

In fact, your response to Monsanto might be a good opportunity to indicate that there is a strict embargo until on-line publication in TLO (as stressed on the first day overview presentation), and all participants will be informed as soon as we have final information from TLO.

(Between the lines?) Monsanto did not adhere to the rules for Observers and broke the embargo and this might well have consequences.

Best,

Kurt

Dear Matt,

Thanks for your note. The vol 112 decisions, and the decision process, are currently embargoed. I'll let you know when that has been lifted. I'd suggest referring interested parties to IARC, but I'll let Kurt or Ivan respond as well.

Best,

Kate

Hi Kate,

I am not sure the protocol for inquiries regarding MG112.

Dan Jenkins of Monsanto has contacted me (left me messages) asking about the decision process for Glyphosate, specifically.

I will work with our folks internally to figure out our protocol but wanted to also get your input as far as the embargo goes and our interaction with interested parties and media.

Thanks,
